

District Realignment

In an initiative aimed at better allocating conference resources to help all churches become Acts 2 congregations, the Baltimore-Washington Conference moved from nine districts to eight.

The district realignment gives the conference's four regions roughly an equal number of churches.

According to the Book of Discipline, annual conference members set the number of districts, the bishop sets the district boundaries.

Conference members voted to change the districts during the 224th annual conference session in May of 2008. The plan became effective July 1. The boundary changes have required some churches to be located in new regions.

A) Baltimore-Washington Conference:

B) 4 REGIONS

Split into 4 regions:

- 1) Annapolis-Southern Region (144 CHURCHES)
- 2) Baltimore Region (189 CHURCHES)
- 3) Washington Region (150 CHURCHES)
- 4) Western Region (191 CHURCHES)

C) 8 DISTRICTS

Each Region split into 2 Districts as follows:

- 1) Annapolis-Southern Region made up of Annapolis (72) and Washington East (72)
- 2) Baltimore Region made up of Baltimore Suburban (102) and Baltimore Metropolitan (87)
- 3) Washington Region made up of Central Maryland (78) and Greater Washington (72)
- 4) Western Region made up of Cumberland-Hagerstown (92) and Frederick (99)
